

Online training on

Fish Disease and Health Management in Inland Waters

Organised by: ICAR-Central Inland Fisheries Research Institute

Sponsored by: ICAR funded All India Network Project on Fish Health

4 – 6 March, 2021

About the training :

Fish farming plays a pivotal role in augmenting the food production and economy of the country. However, faulty management practices, lack of scientific knowledge and guidance and incidence of far-flung disease problems cause huge loss to fish cultivators. Hence, disease diagnosis, their prevention and control has gained utmost significance and become the focal point in fish culture systems. The present online training encompasses the fundamentals and diagnostic approach in aquaculture practices, both for regular cultivators, students and new-age learners.

Objectives of the training

To acquaint the participants with basic aquaculture managements

To guide them on disease identification diagnostic approaches in finfish and shellfish.

To create awareness on better management practices and encourage new comers in profitable fish production.
